

Identify victim as Hollywood resident

A definite suspect has been established in the brutal murder of 22-year-old Elizabeth Short, whose mutilated body was found dumped in a vacant lot in southwestern Los Angeles Wednesday morning.

Identification of the girl was made last night by police from copies of her fingerprints on file with the FBI in Washington.

Elizabeth was a Massachusetts girl who recently lived at a hotel at 1611 N. Orange Dr. in Hollywood.

In 1943 she was a civilian employe at a post exchange at Camp Cooke near Lompoc and more recently worked at the post exchange at Camp Pendleton.

Investigators who said they were withholding the name of the suspect for the present, declared that she might be the man of whom Elizabeth told friends she was "deadly afraid."

That Elizabeth lived in fear of a suitor was substantiated in San Diego by Mrs. Vera French and her daughter, Dorothy.

The Frenchs, who live at 2750 Camino Tadaro, Pacific Beach, said Elizabeth lived with them from last Dec. 12 until Jan. 8, when she hurriedly left for Hollywood.

Mrs. French told officers that Elizabeth, whom she had met in San Diego, was very popular with men and had many dates. The girl, she said, often spoke, however, about a boy friend from whom she was always hiding because of an unexplained fear.

Harold Frank Costa, 31, and Donald Lyles, 22, who lived in the same Hollywood hotel last October as Elizabeth, described her as being a very attractive girl who liked to see and be seen in Hollywood nightspots.

Two other persons who reported to police they knew Elizabeth when she lived in Hollywood were Marvin Margolis, 27, and William Robinson, 25.

The two men said they had often been in places Elizabeth frequented. The last time they saw her, they said, was the latter part of November.

On the night before the body was found, a Los Angeles policewoman said, a girl answering the description of the pretty, dark-haired victim asked for protection against a man who "had threatened to kill me."

The policewoman, Myrtle McBride, told homicide investigators late last night that the girl had approached her at the Sixth and Main Sta. bus terminal, sobbing with terror.

The policewoman said the girl told her she had just run into a former boyfriend, who once had threatened to "kill her if he ever found her with another man." She had left him that day.

Mrs. McBride, who at first believed the girl who appealed for aid was Elizabeth, was not as certain after viewing photos of the slain girl.

Mrs. Phoebe M. Short of Medford, Miss., mother of the slain girl, said last night she had received a letter from her daughter from San Diego about two weeks ago.

"As far as I know she was working in a naval hospital there," said Mrs. Short.

"I just can't believe my daughter is dead."

Identification was made from fingerprints which the FBI had on record from Sept. 1943, when the girl was arrested in Santa Barbara.

She had been a clerk at the Camp Cooke post exchange near Santa Barbara and was picked up for drinking with soldiers in a cafe there.

Policewoman Mary Unkefer of the Santa Barbara police department took the girl to her own home to live with her for nine days.

"She was very good looking," said Miss Unkefer, "with beautiful dark hair and fair skin. She dressed nicely and was a long way from being a barfly."

Miss Unkefer said the girl had a rose tattooed on her left leg. "She loved to sit so that it would show," the policewoman recalled. The killer gouged the identifying mark from the body.

"We put her on the train for her home, and several times later she wrote to me from there," Miss Unkefer recalled. One of her letters said:

"I'll never forget you—thank God you picked me up when you did!"

FBI records described the girl as 5 foot 6, 121 pounds, brown hair, green eyes, medium build and with moles on the back of her neck.

The description tallies almost exactly with that given by the coroner's office here of the body found Wednesday morning on Norton Ave. between 39th St. and Coliseum St.

Yesterday an autopsy showed the girl had been tortured with sharp metal weapons before she died, then trussed up and butchered.

Dr. Frederick D. Newbarr, chief autopsy surgeon, listed the cause of death as hemorrhage from face and head wounds after examining the body of the victim for three hours.

He ruled out the possibility that the pretty young girl had been strangled.

Rope burns about the wrists and ankles indicated that the girl had been strung up for torture and post-mortem mutilation, the surgeon said.

Other grotesque findings of the autopsy gave evidence of the fiendish mind of the slayer toward whose identity and capture the full force of the Los Angeles homicide squad was turned.

To spur apprehension of the criminal, city officials agreed to post a $10,000 reward. Councilman Lloyd G. Davies said he would propose the reward before the City Council today.

"Automobiles" gave detectives their only early clues to the killer.

One car which detectives believed might have been used by the slayer was a 1940 green Hudson convertible which was found abandoned on a gas station lot at 951 Manchester Ave.

The car had bloodstains on one door, and inside were copies of three newspapers with detailed accounts of the slaying.

The registered owner of the vehicle told police the car was stolen from him, but he had failed to make a report.

He was called to headquarters for further questioning.

Gristly L. A. murder similar to sex slaying of seven San Diego women

Southern California police officers last night noted the striking similarity between the mad butcher murder of Elizabeth Short, 22, whose body was found here Wednesday, and other unsolved San Diego sex crimes.

Officers in the border city immediately feared that San Diego's sadistic woman killer, already believed responsible for at least seven unsolved murders, was on the prowl again.

For 15 years, police and psychologists have agreed that the killer was a sexual sadist whose crimes increased in brutality.

By studying the records of unsolved cases, they conjectured that Miss Short, who worked and lived in San Diego, could well be the mad killer's latest victim—in the most brutal crime of them all.

The string of unsolved crimes began in Feb., 1931, when Virginia Brooks, 10-year-old schoolgirl, was found in a sack, raped and murdered. Her body, trussed in a gunny sack, was found months later.

On April 25 of the same year, the body of Dolly Bibbens, attractive, well-to-do widow, was found in her apartment. She had been viciously beaten after first being raped.

Two weeks later, Hazel Bradshaw, beautiful 22-year-old telephone operator, was found murdered in the Indian Village, Balboa Park. She had been stabbed 17 times.

While still investigating these three murders, police were called to the apartment of Maud Detwiler, attractive divorcee. She, too, had been raped and sadistically slain.

There was a three year lull before the sex fiend struck again. Then, on the morning of March 4, 1934, police found Mrs. Wesley Adams dead, the victim of a killer following a similar pattern to the first three crimes.

A month later, San Diego was shocked by one of the most baffling of all sex crime cases. Hanging from a tree on Black Mountain was the nude body of pretty Louise Teuber, 17-year-old clerk.

A rope around her neck was tied to the limbs of two trees, but an autopsy indicated she had been raped and murdered elsewhere, before being tied to the trees.

Before the summer ended, the sadist struck again.

Celia Cota, 16-year-old high school beauty, was murdered just before she entered her home after attending a movie.

She had been raped several times, tortured and strangled.

So incensed was San Diego that the entire police administration was replaced, but still no clues to the mad slayer were found.

Next, and perhaps most spectacular in the series, was the brutal murder of Miss Ruth Muir, Riverside YWCA secretary, and daughter of a prominent Phoenix banker.

Visiting her vacationing parents in La Jolla, Miss Muir walked along the moon-lit shore of La Jolla on the night of Sept. 2, 1936.

She had paused behind a lover's bench, near the Casa Manana Hotel, when the killer struck her.

Police said they had never known a murder in which the victim's head was so hysterically beaten. She, too, had been raped and slashed.

But the most vicious killing of all—and perhaps No. 8 in the series—was the murder of Miss Short, whose mutilated and dissected body was discovered here Wednesday.

Beth Broke and Hungry During Stay in Hollywood

Jobs were few and money was scarce for Elizabeth Short during her residence at a Hollywood hotel last year, two youths and the hotel's clerk told police last night.

Harold Costa, 31, and Donald Leyes, 22—both residents of the hotel at 1611 North Orange drive—said they had been boy friends of Elizabeth's two roommates, Margery Graham and Lynn Martin.

"Whenever we took the girls out to dinner, they always asked us if they might bring Beth along," Costa recalled. "They said the kid was broke and hungry."

Leyes added that the three girls occasionally worked as waitresses.

"Miss Short was always getting behind in her rent," James McGrath, clerk at the hotel remembered. "Whenever she did, a short, dark man—about 35 or 40—came in and paid her bill. He used to drive a black Ford sedan and park it in front."

McGrath said the victim of the fiendish torture slaying last Tuesday had been a chronic bronchitis sufferer and once underwent a chest operation.

"When Beth and the other two girls checked out of the hotel last October," the clerk added, "they piled their baggage in the short, dark man's car and drove off."

Costa and Leyes remembered a date they had had with the three girls when Elizabeth asked to be excused because "her hair needed another henna rinse."

At 6:10 p.m. yesterday I received a call from [redacted] of the Los Angeles Times. He stated he was inquiring regarding our identification of the murdered girl found in Los Angeles day before yesterday, that the Los Angeles Examiner had sent her prints to Washington via wirephoto and that the Bureau had identified the girl and informed the Examiner and the Los Angeles police. I told him this was correct, that we had made the identification, that since it involved a local case any further comment would have to come from the Chief of Police. He asked for the girl's name and I told him. He was very appreciative.

At 7:00 p.m. [redacted] of INS called. He asked if we could give them a statement at 9 o'clock, as he would be smack in the middle since they had received a previous inquiry from the Herald Express the day paper, and he had deliberately declined to answer this inquiry and it would be very embarrassing unless they carried something on their wire. Of course, at 9 o'clock the Examiner was on the street.

At 8:40 p.m. I received a call from the Associated Press stating that their Los Angeles Bureau was making inquiry regarding the case, that the Los Angeles Examiner had the full details, the Times had a story. I also ascertained that United Press had a similar inquiry. Accordingly, at 8:50 p.m. I issued the following statement to INS, which was given to the AP at 8:55 and to UP at 9:05. All were appreciative.

"J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the FBI, announced that fingerprints sent to the FBI by wire photo of an unidentified murdered girl whose body was located by local authorities in Los Angeles were identified when searched through the fingerprint files of the FBI, containing some 104 million sets of fingerprints.

"The fingerprints, taken by Los Angeles Police, were submitted to Washington by the Los Angeles Examiner today over the facilities of the International News Photos. Upon receipt in Washington they were delivered to the FBI Identification Division by a representative of the Los Angeles Examiner.

"Only 8 fingerprints appeared on the cards and 3 others were badly blurred, yet it was possible for fingerprint experts to search them through the files and identify them with two fingerprint cards previously on file bearing the name of Elizabeth Short.

"One of the fingerprint cards was submitted by authorities at Camp Cooke, California, on January 30, 1943, indicating that Miss Short was an applicant for a position as a clerk in the Post Exchange. The other set of fingerprints was submitted by the Santa Barbara, California, Police Department reflecting the girl's arrest on September 28, 1948, on charges of violating Juvenile Court laws after which she was released to the Probation Department. Her residence at that time was recorded as 401 E. S. Montecito Street.

"Both cards reflected her date of birth as July 28, 1924, at Hyde Park, Massachusetts."

"All details on the identification were promptly communicated to the Los Angeles police authorities."

I also furnished copies of the girl's picture pursuant to requests from Home News photos and the AP photo service.

[redacted] of the Los Angeles Examiner was wondering if the Director today could give them a brief quote along the lines that the action of the Examiner in forwarding the fingerprints by wire photo was an excellent illustration of public service. I told [redacted] we would think about this. I see no objection to this. [redacted] wanted a letter, although I do not think the Director should write a letter. The Examiner should be thanking us. However, I would suggest the Director give out the following statement:

"The action of the Los Angeles Examiner in transmitting to the FBI the fingerprints of the unidentified murdered victim is an excellent illustration of the cooperation of the press with law enforcement, and it is such cooperation that aids law enforcement in curbing the increase in crime."

To recount the happenings on Thursday, January 16, involving the identification of Elizabeth Short and the possible interest of [redacted] of the Los Angeles Times, I wish to advise as follows:

Shortly after 10 a.m. on the morning of January 16, [redacted] of the local Hearst bureau, which represents the Los Angeles Examiner, called and related the murder and stated that in cooperation with the Los Angeles Police the Los Angeles Examiner was sending the fingerprints of the girl to Washington via International News Photos wire service. They were sending them at considerable cost and as soon as they arrived [redacted] asked if we could check them. I made the arrangements with Mr. Quinn Tamm in Ident.

The pictures arrived at approximately 11 o'clock. Quinn Tamm called me on the phone and stated that he doubted they would be able to identify the prints since two of the fingerprint impressions were missing entirely and three others were badly blurred. [redacted] they would start making reference searches but that it would be better if they had better impressions. Accordingly, I called [redacted] back and told him that we were having difficulty and it would be much better if he could have a full set of the fingerprints transmitted and if the transmission could be clear. This request was cancelled when [redacted] made the identification of the Los Angeles Times called Quinn Tamm and in my absence was referred to Mr. Jones. [redacted] referred to the unidentified girl and stated that she had a wire from her paper furnishing the fingerprint classification. Mr. Jones told [redacted] that it would be extremely difficult to identify a set of fingerprints with only the fingerprint classification and of course with no name. However, Mr. Jones stated he would check on the matter. Mr. Jones checked with Quinn Tamm, who informed him of the search that was then underway and referred Mr. Jones to me. I told Mr. Jones to get nothing and to sit tight.

The identification was made [redacted] of the afternoon and the full details were furnished to [redacted] of the Los Angeles Examiner. Obviously, from a newspaper standpoint the Examiner by its enterprise and initiative had a clear stake in this matter and of course was entitled to such protection as would be given them. At that time we decided that we would not furnish the information to anybody, that if the [redacted] called back we would of course refer them to the Los Angeles Police but furnish the name of the girl. It was also decided if they did not call by 7 o'clock that we would call them.

At 5:40 [redacted] called Mr. Jones' office and in Mr. Jones absence talked to Supervisor [redacted] and also gave [redacted] the fingerprint classification. [redacted] stated he would get hold of Mr. Jones and have him call [redacted] back. Mr. Jones was out and [redacted] was unable to get hold of Mr. Jones until shortly after 6 o'clock, and at that time [redacted] called back. On this occasion he was perturbed and stated that another paper had received a reply, that it looked like the Bureau was playing favorites and indicated that he was being given a run-around. At this moment Mr. Jones came in. Mr. Jones talked to him and told him I was handling the matter. Mr. Jones, in accordance with my instructions, then referred [redacted] to my office. When [redacted] called he obviously had a chip on his shoulder and he immediately went into a tirade that he had called Jones and was being given a run-around and he demanded to know what the score was, stating that his paper had a deadline to make.

I told him the score simply was that the Los Angeles Examiner, which he in turn had mentioned by name as having the story, had furnished the fingerprints to us by wire photo, that we had made the identification, that since it was a local case it was suggested that his people contact the Police Department in Los Angeles. He was very gracious at this point and thanked me. He then asked for the girl's name and I furnished him with the girl's name. This satisfied him completely.

I noted in the Los Angeles Times story that the Times stated that the Times had been informed of the identity of the girl by the FBI after the Times had sent the fingerprint classification to Washington.

Shortly before 6 o'clock INS had a query from the Los Angeles Herald Express. They of course were fully informed as to the developments in the case by [redacted] the Herald Express is a day Hearst paper and INS stalled on making any reply.

At about 7 o'clock that evening [redacted] called me and asked if we would give out a short statement around 9 o'clock which would protect him since the Examiner would then be on the street. At 8:40 p.m. I received a call from the AP, advising that the Los Angeles Times and the Los Angeles Examiner had the story. I told the AP that I would check on the matter and call them back. I then issued a short statement to INS and called the AP back and issued a short statement to them and to the UP. The statement issued is attached, included in my memorandum of January 17.

[redacted] has the reputation of carrying a chip on his shoulder. I would not be the least bit surprised that he might not protest against our handling of the matter. I do not think he has a leg to stand on since the Examiner was entitled to the protection that they had. I recall very distinctly that during the smear campaign of 1940 [redacted] exhibited an unfriendly attitude toward the Bureau. With my recollection serving me correctly, I was informed confidentially that at one of the AG's press conferences [redacted] asked questions indicating an unfriendly attitude toward the Bureau.

Los Angeles, 13, California
Feb. 15, 1947

J. Edgar Hoover,
Director,
Federal Bureau of Investigation,
Washington, D.C.

Dear Sir;-

I had occasion once before to write you - April 10, 1947 and feel impressed to do so again now. That other was a personal matter; this one is of grave public importance which is being grossly neglected - if not abetted - by the police.

On the night of the 14th. of January there was an awful rumpus [redacted] whom everybody used to call the Old Policeman - has lived there for a long time. I was told that [redacted] heard it all - the terrible obscene language the man was using and the woman screaming, [redacted] He at once called policemen. Twelve - I was told - came and took old [redacted] covered with blood - to jail. Later an ambulance came to get the girl's body. It was all cut up and terribly mutilated. Her mouth cut from ear to ear. The lady [redacted] fainted when she saw it. The next morning the body of the Black "ahlig" was found dumped out into a lot on Norton. [redacted] all cleaned up was let out by the sheriff [redacted] as though nothing had happened. He's been going and coming ever since - so I'm told - and the second murder in L.A. within the past week - Feb. 10th - has all the earmarks of his dirty work.

Now, I do not know whether or not this matter has been taken care of by any investigators. The police appear to be doing nothing in regard to it. Maybe no one has reported it for fear of the police - as they already know all about it; having been here twelve strong that night of B.D.'s murder. She was alive a few minutes before they got here. The first paper, The Times, mentioned a $10,000 reward involved.

We women are beginning to live in mortal terror of these conditions that are happening around us, for this corner was once a highly respected neighborhood. We have no place to move to, and cannot get out. [redacted] has been involved before in other questionable affairs. Everybody [redacted] could give evidence in regard to this matter.

[redacted] - and many I do not know by name. The matter is being hushed up. Everybody is afraid of the police. I am giving you this information in case you have not been informed. L.A. needs cleaning up. If the matter is being taken care of - to your knowledge - please drop the matter here. If not; I would like to see [redacted] picked up at once for he is to have until the 18th. Tuesday. [redacted] leave [redacted] 27.

DATE: February 21, 1947

TO : Director, FBI
FROM : SAC, Los Angeles
SUBJECT: ELIZABETH SHORT
Information Concerning

On February 18, 1947, [redacted] of the Los Angeles Examiner, advised me that in all probability I would receive a request from Mayor FLETCHER BOWRON on February 18th for this Bureau's assistance in connection with the murder case in which ELIZABETH SHORT is the victim. The Bureau will recall that this individual was murdered and her body dissected and it is referred to as the "Black Dahlia" case. G. I. R. 5

[redacted] went on to state that Mayor BOWRON had been friendly to the Examiner and that he personally was friendly to the Mayor but that there are now rumbles of incompetency in the police department and that citizens are terrorized in view of the recent murders in this city - there having been four unusual cases in the past six weeks. He stated that within the last several days the Police Commission has asked Chief of Police [redacted] HORRALL for a report on these cases and in [redacted] opinion if there is another murder of this type in the near future, it is going to be most unfortunate for the Los Angeles Police Department.

He stated many people believe that the FBI should join forces with the local department in this case and they do not know that our jurisdiction will not permit it. He mentioned that if the FBI did join the local authorities and nothing became of the investigation, there obviously would not be so much unfavorable reflection on the local agency and likewise if the Bureau were to solve the case and make its own independent release and ignore the police department, it would destroy all public confidence in the police organization.

[redacted] states that he has many good friends on the Homicide Squad and they have been very cooperative with his paper but it is known that many of them are not experienced homicide investigators, they having been taken over from other squads in the last year or so.

I was with [redacted] on February 18th and without my mentioning this situation, he stated he wanted me to know confidentially that on February 17th the Mayor had called [redacted] and asked if he did not request assistance of this Bureau and [redacted] informed him that we had no jurisdiction to enter the investigation but for the Mayor's own information and not for publication, this office had been of considerable assistance in the investigation. This is true, as we have made records available to the local officers which they were not in a position to obtain and have rendered them assistance in contacting the Veterans Bureau, Navy Department and other similar organizations. No actual investigation has been made of the murder case and none is contemplated. [REDACTED] wanted me to know that if the Mayor did make any statement about the Bureau's participation in this case that it was entirely the Mayor's and over the objection of [REDACTED]

He pointed out [REDACTED] could take the criticism that might be directed to them [REDACTED] under no circumstances [REDACTED] do anything that might give the appearance of attempting to pass it on to this Bureau. He stated that the Mayor meant well but that when the newspapers put the pressure on him his judgment is not good and he might say something that would appear to involve this Bureau in the investigation. I informed [REDACTED] that I understood the Mayor was going to call upon me for assistance but that if he did so, it would be explained that [REDACTED] federal jurisdiction for us to enter the case but our [REDACTED] facilities would be available at any time as they have always been in the past.

For the Bureau's information, reporters were at the scene of the murder before the law enforcement officers arrived and had the evidence in their possession before the officers, and throughout the entire investigation the reporters have talked to witnesses and published facts which were bound to hinder the investigation of the local department. Reporters are in the office of the Detective Bureau and it is not possible for the investigators to have confidential telephone conversation or even read mail without having some newspaper reporter looking it over to see if it relates to this case.

As Mr. ROSEN of the Bureau was informed February 18th, the Mayor, if he requests assistance from us, would be informed of the Bureau's lack of jurisdiction in the case and newspaper inquiries will be met with a direct statement that we have no investigative jurisdiction, and if any statement the Mayor might make calls for a clarification, the matter will be discussed with the Bureau immediately before any comment is made.

Since dictation of the above material, [REDACTED] has telephonically advised me that he had another talk with the Mayor and he believes the entire situation is taken care of and he does not anticipate that anything further will be heard on it.

RE: ELIZABETH SHORT
"BLACK DAHLIA" MURDER IN LOS ANGELES
INFORMATION CONCERNING

Dear Sir:

The manner in which ELIZABETH SHORT's body was dissected has indicated the possibility that the murderer was a person somewhat experienced in medical work. The Los Angeles Police Department has undertaken to develop suspects among the medical and dental schools in the area, as well as among other students who have anything to do with human anatomy.

The University of Southern California Medical School was reluctant to turn over a list of their students to the police department without being assured that the names would not be indexed into police or FBI records as suspects in the case. This assurance has been given them.

I am enclosing two copies of a list of the University of Southern California medical students, giving the name, address, ~~birth~~ date and Army or Navy compensation number where known. Those students with "c" numbers are in school under the G.I. Bill of Rights. It is requested that the Bureau search these names through the criminal record indices and in the event any criminal record is determined for any of these men, a copy is requested to be sent air mail to this office.

It will be noted that eight names are preceded with an asterisk. In these cases, if a fingerprint card is located for the individual, it is requested that a photographic copy of fingerprints be furnished to this office by air mail as the Los Angeles Police Department Crime Laboratory has compared the handwriting of these individuals with notes received in the case and has concluded that there is some similarity and they would like to be able to compare latent fingerprints also.

I feel that we can be of much assistance to the Los Angeles Police Department in this case and the Bureau's expeditious attention to this project will be sincerely appreciated by ~~the~~ RECORDED 62-82627-40

At the completion of the Bureau's search, it is requested that the list be destroyed or returned to the Los Angeles Office.

Very truly yours,

You are advised that no criminal records were located for the individuals whose names are marked with an asterisk. However, non-criminal fingerprint cards were located for nine of these individuals, photographic copies of which are enclosed as requested.

Non-criminal fingerprint records were also located for 217 other individuals and their fingerprints, as well as those mentioned above, were compared with the five latent fingerprints previously submitted in connection with the instant case, but no identifications were effected.

For your information, red check marks appear on the returned lists before the names of individuals for whom fingerprint cards were located. It should be noted that no fingerprints are available for 28 individuals.

Dear Sir;-

b7U

Elizabeth Short

As you know, the Black Dahlia case has been quickly hushed up, and apparently all covered up. No effort was really made to bring the culprit to justice. His name [REDACTED] and his room number [REDACTED] and all of his dirty work, are well known to the police but the rascal is still [REDACTED] begging [REDACTED] to stay! He was supposed to have left by the 18th - by order of the sheriff. As for any material evidence being now available, that is possibly out of the question. For the firemen and police have been here many times "cleaning" up after [REDACTED]. I saw an old mattress being brought into the house here from a truck - marked M 62 on the back left corner - on the first of Feb. about 12:30 p.m. [REDACTED] says the firemen have found an enormous amount of old papers between this house and the next - corner restaurant and saloons - and that they have been clearing them out. The strip is only a couple of feet or so wide and directly under [REDACTED] fourth floor windows. [REDACTED] know about these goings-on of [REDACTED] and tried to evict [REDACTED] whom they accused of talking too much. They are almost as kind to [REDACTED] as are the police. This was not [REDACTED] first offense. I heard on good authority from several sources [REDACTED] that a woman who had been with the "Old Policeman" - as they call [REDACTED] was shoved when drunk from the roof or 4th floor and taken to the hospital - probably the same ambulance that took the Black Dahlia. Another affair that took place in his room and ended down in a book-store or Magazine shop [REDACTED] on 5th, st. and which was quickly hushed up - and the store vacated; now being used to store liquor - was more than suspicious. I will never forget that poor store-keeper's wife's screaming and being suddenly choked still, as long as I live! The old man with the white dog called Michel, that used to live [REDACTED] who talked too much about this affair, has now disappeared. I am told he is in a hospital from liquor poisoning!

Hoping this information may be of service,

Sincerely [REDACTED]

You will recall we addressed a letter to the Social Security Administration requesting their assistance by furnishing record information in their possession to assist in locating a suspect in the very vicious murder of Elizabeth Short which occurred just recently in California and has received so much publicity. We are now in receipt of the reply which is a rather verbose declination based on a regulation prescribed by the Social Security Board. It is attached.

During the war, Social Security furnished us information on cases directly concerned with the "successful prosecution of the war". You will recall that just recently they wrote to the Attorney General and stated since the President's proclamation terminating hostilities, this cooperation could now be honored only when we certify that the case in question grew out of the war. We accordingly directed a memorandum to the Attorney General protesting the lack of cooperation on the part of Social Security and pointing out that we now have cases which are of at least as grave concern to the security of the country as during the war and asking him to make every effort to effect arrangements whereby we could secure this invaluable information.

There are attached for your approval a teletype to Los Angeles advising that Social Security has refused to furnish the information needed by the police and a memorandum to the Attorney General advising of this incident to supplement our previous memorandum.

Dear Mr. Hoover:

I am replying to your letter of January 28, 1947, which [REDACTED] b7c | delivered to us, in which you request information from our records concerning the employment of Elizabeth Short.

The subject of such requests has been previously discussed with the Department of Justice; you may recall that early in 1937, your department requested access to our records for the location of individuals suspected of criminal acts. At that time, every consideration was given to the request but because of the Social Security Board's often-repeated public pledge that information furnished would be used only for the purposes of the Social Security Act, and after consulting with other governmental agencies, representatives of organized labor, and others, the request was denied. Since that time we have followed the policy of refusing to furnish confidential information from our records except for the purposes of administering the Act. An exception was made, however, in our agreement whereby your department has been furnished information when such disclosures would be in the interest of the successful prosecution of the war.

Supporting this policy Congress, in the 1939 amendments to the Social Security Act, enacted Section 1106 which provides that the records of the Social Security Board (now the Social Security Administration) shall be regarded as confidential and that no disclosures thereof may be made except as the Board may by regulations prescribe. Regulation I, adopted in conformity with this statute, prescribes what information may be disclosed and to whom. b7c

Although I appreciate entirely your desire for such information I regret that the request, in accordance with this Regulation, is not one for which an exception may be made.

FBI Head Lauds Examiner for Slaying Case Aid

By RAY RICHARDS
Los Angeles Examiner Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Congratulations and thanks of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the identification of a girl murder victim were extended to the Los Angeles Examiner today by the agency's director, J. Edgar Hoover.

Hoover said:

"The action of the Los Angeles Examiner in transmitting to the FBI the fingerprints of the unidentified murder victim was an excellent illustration of cooperation of the press with law enforcement.

"It is such cooperation that aids law enforcement in curbing the increase in crime."

In a news release announcing the identification late last night the FBI gave the Los Angeles Examiner sole credit for bringing about the identification in record time.

The release explained that the Examiner, cooperating with the Los Angeles Police Department, sent the girl's 10 fingerprints to Washington over the instantaneous Sound-photo system of International News Photos.

They were sent to the FBI's identification section by the Washington Bureau of the Hearst Newspapers, where, among 104,000,000 separate fingerprints, they were identified as those of Elizabeth Short, former clerk in a military post exchange at Camp Cooke, Calif.

Thus California authorities were enabled to take up the pursuit of the slayer, an individual so brutal that he had hacked the girl's face and torso and cut the body in two.

In the FBI Washington records the case was entered as a "spectacular identification," meaning one achieved under extraordinary circumstances.

Only rarely in the past has an attempt been made to transmit fingerprints by telegraph or telephone wire, and never so successfully as in the case of Elizabeth Short.

FBI officials said the perfect clarity of INP transmission alone made it possible for FBI identification experts to reconstruct the blank spots and other defects in prints offered by the dead girl's fingers.

Based upon the request which was made by the Los Angeles Division of our Philadelphia Office to conduct investigation in connection with the "Black Dahlia" case, I called Philadelphia and instructed them that upon the basis of the information available to the Bureau, we did not desire any additional inquiries made in this case.

The attached wire reflects that the Los Angeles Police Department desires our cooperation. They have found out through their own inquiries that the victim in the "Black Dahlia" case, Betty Short, was married to one [redacted] is in the Army, and although the Army reports reflect that [redacted] was present each day during the pertinent period, the Los Angeles Police Department still desires that he be interviewed.

We have not conducted any investigation in this case and I do not think we ought to enter it at this late date. The Philadelphia Office was instructed not to conduct any investigation and unless advised to the contrary, they will not. If approved, a wire should be sent to our Los Angeles Office advising that inquiries are to be conducted in this case as previously instructed and that, of course, our Laboratory facilities are available. There is no reason to change these plans at this time.

Benzedrinist Hops Up New 'Dahlia' Confession

By United Press

ST. LOUIS, March 24—A blood-stained handkerchief and a revised "confession" which may link 23-year-old Melvin Bailey with the mutilation-murder of Elizabeth (Black Dahlia) Short were en route to Los Angeles police today.

The handkerchief, given police by Bailey, was found yesterday to have been stained with human blood several weeks ago. Bailey claims it is Miss Short's handkerchief and her blood and that he carried it as a "keepsake" after slashing and cutting her body in two with an eight inch Marine combat knife.

TO CHECK BLOOD STAINS

Bailey, who made his first confession March 18, changed his statement adding more details to the gruesome story he told of mutilating the girl's body because she refused to accompany him from Los Angeles to St. Louis.

His new statement did not correct the original discrepancy in the dates. Miss Short's body was found January 15, and police said she was dead less than 12 hours. Bailey claims he killed the girl January 13.

Los Angeles police will attempt to determine if the blood on the handkerchief is the same type as that of Miss Short.

Bailey said on the night of January 12 he and Miss Short began a round of nightclubs. She drank liquor, he said, while he consumed benzedrine and coffee "for a lift."

Later, Bailey said, he and Miss Short took a drive in a stolen auto. During the ride, he said, they argued about the St. Louis trip.

BURNED HIS CLOTHING

Bailey said he stopped the car along the Long Beach road near the shore. After more arguments, he knocked Miss Short unconscious and carried her body down to the beach, slashed her repeatedly across the breasts, abdomen and groin, and then cut her body in two.

He used a blanket, he said, to wash the body, dipping it in the ocean several times and returning to sponge off her skin.

Bailey said he returned to Los Angeles and drove around until he reached the intersection of a "rather broad street" and Santa Barbara. There he found a vacant lot where he placed the body, putting a white flower from her hair into her hands.

Later that morning, Bailey said he went to San Francisco and obtained an auto ride to St. Louis. He said he burned his blood-soaked clothing near Oklahoma City, but did not remember what he had done with the girl's clothing.
